Dispute Resolution: Complaints Sourcebook (Motor Finance Discretionary Commission Arrangement Complaints) (Amendment) Instrument 2024

- 2.2 Following consultation in CP24/15 the FCA Board has made changes to the Handbook sections listed below:

DISP App 5.1 and App 5.2

- 2.3 In summary, this instrument extends:

- the pause on the requirement for firms to provide a final response to Discretionary Commission Arrangement (DCA) complaints within 8 weeks, giving complainants the right to go to the Financial Ombudsman;
- requirements to keep consumers informed about the pause;
- the timeframe for consumers who receive a final response on relevant complaints to decide whether to refer their complaint to the Financial Ombudsman; and
- requirements to maintain and preserve relevant records (we proposed these should remain in place until 11 April 2026).

- 2.4 This instrument came into force on 26 September 2024. Feedback is published in a separate policy statement.

Change in Control (Aggregation of Holdings) Instrument 2024

- 2.5 Following consultation in CP24/11 the FCA Board has made changes to the Handbook sections listed below:

SUP 11.3 and 11 Annex 6G

- 2.6 In summary, this instrument:

- replaces wording in SUP 11.3.1BG to refer readers to the final non-Handbook guidance in relation to the prudential assessment of acquisitions and increases in control; and
- removes duplicative text in relation to guidance on the aggregation of shares/voting power and acting in concert.

2.7 This instrument comes into force on 1 November 2024. Feedback is published in Chapter 3 of this notice.

EU Withdrawal (Miscellaneous Amendments) Instrument 2024

2.8 Following consultations in CP24/11 the FCA Board has made changes to the Handbook sections listed below:

GEN 2.2, 4.3, 4 Annex 1B, TP 5 and TP 6
SUP 16.30
PERG 13.1 and 13.2

2.9 In summary, this instrument removes expired provisions relating to the temporary permissions regime (TPR) and the temporary marketing permissions regime (TMPR), and implements terminology changes from the Retained EU Law (Revocation and Reform) Act 2023.

2.10 This instrument comes into force on 4 October 2024. Feedback is published in Chapter 3 of this notice.

Technical Standards (Markets in Financial Instruments Transparency) (Transitional Provisions) Instrument 2024

2.11 Following consultation in CP24/10 the FCA Board has made changes to the following technical standards:

Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2017/583
Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2017/587

2.12 In summary, this instrument extends the temporary regime which allowed the FCA to not have to follow the methodology prescribed in EU legislation for calibrating the regime of pre- and post-trade transparency for bonds and derivatives, pending the revision of the transparency regime which is expected to take effect towards the end of 2025.

2.13 This instrument comes into force on 4 October 2024. Feedback is published in Chapter 3 of this notice.

3 Consultation feedback

- 3.1 This chapter provides feedback on consultations that will not have a separate policy statement published by the FCA.

CP24/11: Change in Control (Aggregation of Holdings) Instrument 2024

Background

- 3.2 Chapter 11 of the Supervision Manual (SUP 11) sets out rules and guidance for controllers and close links. It also makes reference to the EU guidelines on the prudential assessment of acquisitions and increases of qualifying holdings in the financial sector (3L3 Guidelines).
- 3.3 In November 2023 we consulted, with the Prudential Regulation Authority (PRA), on proposals to replace the 3L3 Guidelines with non-Handbook guidance on the prudential assessment of acquisitions and increases in control (Change in Control Guidelines) and an equivalent PRA supervisory statement (Consultation Paper (CP) 23/23). The consultation closed on 23 February 2024. We have now considered the feedback and intend to issue final non-Handbook guidance in Q4 2024.
- 3.4 In the July Quarterly Consultation Paper (CP24/11), we consulted on making changes to SUP 11 in readiness for the issuance of the final guidance. As well as replacing reference to the 3L3 Guidelines, we also consulted on removing duplicative text.

Summary of proposals

- 3.5 In CP24/11 we consulted on:
- replacing the wording in SUP 11.3.1BG to refer readers to the Change in Control Guidelines instead of the 3L3 Guidelines; and
 - deleting SUP 11 Annex 6G, which contains text that is duplicated in the Change in Control Guidelines.

How this links to our objectives

- 3.6 The Change in Control Guidelines would advance the FCA's objectives of protecting consumers, enhancing market integrity and promoting competition by providing clarity on the factors the FCA would consider when applying the assessment criteria and deciding when a proposed acquirer is suitable to control and/or direct a UK authorised firm. The FCA's secondary objective to support the international competitiveness and growth of the UK economy in the medium to long term would also be advanced by making the FCA's expectations and requirements clearer and more transparent to persons proposing to acquire or increase control over a UK authorised firm. The changes to SUP 11 will direct readers to the guidelines, and the removal of duplicative text will make it easier for readers to navigate through the Handbook.

Feedback

- 3.7 We received no feedback on our proposed amendments.

Our response

- 3.8 As we received no feedback on our proposed amendments, we are making the changes as consulted.

Cost benefit analysis

- 3.9 Section 138I of the Financial Services and Markets Act (FSMA) requires us to publish a cost benefit analysis (CBA) when proposing draft rules unless we believe that there will be no increase in costs or that the increase will be of minimal significance. In CP24/11, we explained our view that no CBA was required for our proposals because the amendments would not lead to an increase in costs or the increase would be of minimal significance. Our position remains unchanged.

- 3.10 Section 138IA FSMA requires the FCA to consult the CBA panel about the preparation of a CBA. We have not consulted the CBA panel as the CBA falls under the materiality threshold in the CBA statement of policy.

Equality and diversity statement

- 3.11 We continue to believe that the changes we have made will not have a negative impact on any of the groups with protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010 and no concerns were raised during consultation.

Environmental, social and governance considerations

- 3.12 We have considered the environmental, social and governance implications of our proposals and our duty under sections 1B(5) and 3B(c) of FSMA to have regard to contributing towards the Secretary of State achieving compliance with the net zero emissions target under section 1 of the Climate Change Act 2008. Overall, we do not consider that the proposals are relevant to contributing to those targets.

Rule Review Framework

- 3.13 Due to the nature of the changes here, we are satisfied that the amendments are exempt from the requirement to be monitored under the Framework.

CP24/11: EU Withdrawal (Miscellaneous Amendments) Instrument 2024

Background

- 3.14 Following the UK's departure from the European Union, the temporary permissions regime (TPR) allowed inward passporting European Economic Area (EEA) firms to continue operating in the UK. The temporary marketing permissions regime (TMPR) allowed the continued marketing of funds into the UK. Various provisions relating to the TPR and the TMPR expired on 31 December 2023.
- 3.15 In addition, the Retained EU Law (Revocation and Reform) Act 2023 renamed various terms relating to EU law which became UK law under the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018.

Summary of proposals

- 3.16 In CP24/11, we proposed to make some minor amendments to the Handbook to remove expired provisions relating to the TPR and the TMPR and to reflect the terminology changes mentioned above.
- 3.17 The proposed changes are included in the following areas of the FCA Handbook:
- Glossary of definitions
 - Principles for Businesses (PRIN)
 - Senior Management Arrangements, Systems and Controls sourcebook (SYSC)
 - General Provisions sourcebook (GEN)
 - Supervision manual (SUP)
 - Perimeter Guidance manual (PERG)

How this links to our objectives

- 3.18 The proposed amendments will ensure that the Handbook is suitably updated to reflect the relevant changes in legislation.
- 3.19 We are satisfied that the proposed amendments are compatible with our objectives, including our secondary competitiveness and growth objective, and regulatory principles and that the amendments advance our operational objectives of securing an appropriate degree of consumer protection and promoting effective competition in the interests of consumers. We are also satisfied that any burdens or restrictions are proportionate to the expected benefits.

Feedback

- 3.20 No feedback was received in response to the consultation.

Our response

- 3.21 We plan to proceed with the changes to the Handbook as consulted on.

Cost benefit analysis

- 3.22 In CP24/11, we set out our view that that there will be no increase in costs arising from the proposals or that the increase will be of minimal significance and we were therefore not required to produce a cost benefit analysis. In the absence of any consultation responses on this point, we remain of the same view. The rules have not changed from the version we consulted on.
- 3.23 Section 138IA FSMA requires the FCA to consult the CBA panel about the preparation of a CBA. We have not consulted the CBA panel as the CBA falls under the materiality threshold in the CBA statement of policy.

Equality and diversity statement

- 3.24 We continue to believe that the rules we have made will not have a negative impact on any of the groups with protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010 and no concerns were raised during consultation.

Environmental, social and governance considerations

- 3.25 We have considered the environmental, social and governance implications of our proposals and our duty under sections 1B(5) and 3B(1)(c) of FSMA to have regard to contributing towards the Secretary of State achieving compliance with the net zero emissions target under section 1 of the Climate Change Act 2008. Overall, we do not consider that the proposals are relevant to contributing to those targets.

Rule Review Framework

- 3.26 We have taken into account our duties under the Rule Review Framework and consider that these changes do not require ongoing monitoring.

CP24/10: Technical Standards (Markets in Financial Instruments Transparency) (Transitional Provisions) Instrument 2024

Background

- 3.27 We are in the process of updating the UK's wholesale markets regulatory regime to improve the functioning of those markets and to strengthen the UK's position in wholesale markets. As part of this we are revising the regime of pre- and post-trade transparency for the secondary trading of financial instruments, including those that apply to bonds and derivatives. We published Consultation Paper CP23/32 on bonds and derivatives transparency in December 2023 and will publish the related Policy Statement in the final quarter of 2024. A new regime is expected to take full effect by the end of 2025.

Summary of proposals

Transitional regime for transparency calculations

- 3.28 The UK Markets in Financial Instruments Regulation (UK MiFIR) establishes pre- and post-trade transparency requirements for the trading of financial instruments. Exemptions are available for instruments that are not liquid and for transactions that are large. To determine whether an instrument is not liquid, or a transaction is large, we perform regular calculations based on data submitted to us. As part of onshoring work prior to EU withdrawal, UK MiFIR and the associated technical standards were amended so that for a transitional period we were not required to follow the methodology inherited from the EU for making liquidity determinations and setting thresholds.
- 3.29 The transitional regime recognised that the transparency framework was designed for an EU market of 28 member states and that issues could arise in applying it to the UK market alone. We have used the transitional regime in operating the transparency regime since 2020, particularly in relation to bonds and derivatives.
- 3.30 The transitional transparency regime expires at the end of this year. In respect of equities, we believe that no issues will arise following the methodology for liquidity determinations and threshold calculations in the UK version of Commission Delegated Regulation \(EU\) 2017/587 \(MiFID RTS 1\). We are making few modifications for individual financial instruments to what would occur if we just followed the methodology in MiFID RTS 1.
- 3.31 In respect of bonds and derivatives, we have consulted through CP23/32 on the creation of a new transparency regime. That regime, which we expect to fully implement by the end of 2025 subject to assessment of consultation responses, will remove the existing methodology for liquidity determinations and threshold calculations in the UK version of Commission Delegated Regulation \(EU\) No 2017/583 \(MiFID RTS 2\).
- 3.32 Between the end 2024 and the implementation of the changes to the bond and derivatives transparency regime in the second half of 2025 there are several points at which an unmodified UK MiFIR transparency regime would require us to undertake liquidity determinations and threshold calculations.

- 3.33 To smooth the path to the new transparency regime, we proposed in CP24/11 (see Chapter 9) extending the existing transitional regime to cover that period. That will enable us to continue to depart from the methodology set out elsewhere in MiFID RTS 2, as appropriate. Therefore we proposed amending Article 13A of MiFID RTS 2 to extend the transitional regime for bonds and derivatives transparency to the point in time when MiFID RTS 2 is revoked and the new transparency regime takes effect.

How this links to our objectives

- 3.34 The proposal to extend the transitional regime for bonds and derivatives transparency aligns with the FCA's statutory objectives of consumer protection and market integrity by ensuring that the regulatory framework remains fit for purpose during the interim period before the new transparency regime is implemented. By allowing continued flexibility in liquidity determinations and threshold calculations, the FCA can better protect consumers from potential market disruptions and maintain a fair, orderly, and transparent market.
- 3.35 The proposal supports our secondary objective of international competitiveness and growth by avoiding a rigid application of EU-designed rules that may not be appropriate for the UK market. This approach ensures that the UK remains an attractive and competitive financial market, while also facilitating smooth adjustments to the upcoming regulatory changes.

Feedback

- 3.36 We received a total of 5 responses to our consultation. All respondents agreed with our proposals to extend the current regime pending the introduction of a new transparency framework in 2025. One respondent noted a concern raised by its members regarding the potential impact of the EU's direction towards more detailed International Securities Identification Numbers (ISINs) for OTC derivatives, suggesting that the UK considers transitioning to UPI (Unique Product Identifier) instead of ISINs for OTC derivatives in the future.

Our response

- 3.37 We have proceeded with the implementation of our proposal as consulted on, without any amendments, in line with the support received for the changes. The issue of identifiers for OTC derivatives was covered in CP23/32. Our proposals on this issue will be finalised in our forthcoming Policy Statement.

Cost benefit analysis

- 3.38 Section 138S of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (FSMA) requires us to publish a cost benefit analysis (CBA) when proposing draft technical standards. However, our proposals do not introduce significant changes to existing standards. Section 138L(3) of FSMA provides that the obligation to publish such an analysis does not apply where we consider that there will be no increase in costs, or the increases will be of minimal significance.

- 3.39 Section 138IA FSMA requires the FCA to consult the CBA panel about the preparation of a CBA. We have not consulted the CBA panel as the CBA falls under the materiality threshold in the CBA statement of policy.

Equality and diversity statement

- 3.40 We have considered the equality and diversity issues that may arise from the proposed amendments. We have not identified any adverse impact that the proposals in this chapter would have on any of the groups with protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010 (ie, age, disability, sex, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion and belief, sexual orientation and gender reassignment). In Northern Ireland, the Equality Act is not enacted but other anti-discrimination legislation applies.

Environmental, social and governance considerations

- 3.41 We have considered the environmental, social and governance implications of our proposals and our duty under sections 1B(5) and 3B(1)(c) of FSMA to have regard to contributing towards the Secretary of State achieving compliance with the net zero emissions target under section 1 of the Climate Change Act 2008. Overall, we do not consider that the proposals are relevant to contributing to those targets.

Rule Review Framework

- 3.42 The FCA's Rule Review Framework states that while we will generally monitor key metrics of new rules, this is not a requirement where it would be disproportionate or where the new rule relates to a minor policy or rule change with minimal impact. Due to the nature of the changes proposed here, we are satisfied that the proposed amendments are exempt from the requirement to be monitored under the Framework.
